Franco Defies 3-Power Ouster Attempt

SPANISH ISSUE TO BE PLACED ON UNO AGENDA

U. S. White Paper Reveals Dictator's Ties And Axis Sympathies

WASHINGTON, March 5—The American-British-French attempt to overthrow Generalissimo Francisco Franco today ran smack into a defiant "I won't quit" from the swashbuckling Spanish leader.

It got a mixed reception in the United States congress where reaction ranged from "Great stuff" to charges of American intervention in Spain. Critics also rapped the tri-power move as "further Russian appeasement."

Reaction Anticipated

Franco's reaction was anticipated. In fact, there were indications before the three power declaration was releasd that none of the sponsors expected it to do the trick.

The declaration was addressed to the Spanish people—specifically to "leading patriotic and liberal-minded Spaniards." It merely expressed the hope that they soon would find means to bring about the "peaceful withdrawal" of Franco and establish an interim or caretaker government until free national elections could be held.

Franco's determination not to quit under pressure, plus the American-British-French "hope" that Spain could be spared another civil war, virtually precluded any immediate steps that would bring about Franco's early demise.

UNO Study Expected

But it was increasingly apparent that the United Nations security council probably would be faced with the Spanish issue after it reconvenes in New York late this month. France, after agreeing to support the three power compromise declaration, indicated that she was nevertheless reserving her right to appeal for council action.

Soviet Russia did not participate in the joint diplomatic maneuver. She has never maintained diplomatic relations with the Franco regime since it came to power under the aegis of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy.

At the same time the three-power declaration was announced, the state department released a "white paper"—a series of documents captured from the Germans—which made clear to the world where Franco's hopes rested in World War II.

"Stab" Plot Disclosed

The documents revealed for the first time a 1940 Hitler-Franco plot to stab Britain in the back after the fall of France with a joint German-Spanish attack on Gibraltar. When the attack was first planned, a German invasion of England was thought to be imminent. Franco believed the Germans had won the war and that only the coup de grace for Britain was left. He was enthusiastic about "operation Gibraltar" at that period.

But as Hitler kept postponing his invasion of Britain, and there were indications of a long war,

Three Powers Demand End Of Franco Regime

GENERALISSIMO Francisco Franco has been served notice that he must turn over Spain to a democratic government or the United Nations security council will "force the issue." Iran's Premier Returns After Protest To Reds

LONDON, March 5—Premier Ahmed Ghavam of Iran was reported on his way home today with Soviet terms for the withdrawal of Red army troops from northwest Iran.

The Beirut radio and dispatches from the Middle East said Ghavam left Moscow late yesterday after lodging a written protest against Russia's failure to evacuate Red army troops by the March 2 deadline fixed in the British-Soviet-Iranian treaty.

Ghavam was received in Moscow yesterday by Generalissimo Stalin in the presence of Foreign Commissar Viacheslav M. Molotov. Diplomatic sources in London interpreted Ghavam's protest to mean that he had little hope of an early Soviet withdrawal.

Authoritative word was lacking on demands which Russia presented to Ghavam. It seemed certain, however, that they included recognition of the autonomous Azerbaijan government and granting of oil concessions to Russia.

A London newspaper dispatch, lacking official confirmation, said the demands also included co-ordination of Iranian and Soviet foreign policy, organization of Azerbaijan armed forces by Soviet officers and a treaty of alliance between Iran and Russia.

An uneasy situation in Tehran awaited Ghavam's return, and his future as premier was uncertain. There was rioting outside the parliament building yesterday during a demonstration by left-wing elements. A scheduled parliament meeting was postponed.

Government Seeks To Avert Nationwide Tie-Up; GM Vote To Be Held

By United Press

Disputants were summoned to meet with top government labor officials today in an effort to avert a nationwide telephone tie-up, and company officials studied the latest union proposal for ending the General Motors strike.

Edgar L. Warren, director of the conciliation service, scheduled a conference at 10 a. m. with representatives of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the Independent Long Lines Union, whose members are scheduled to strike at 6 a. m. Thursday.

Ballot Agreed Upon

The CIO United Auto Workers agreed provisionally last night to a General Motors' demand for a secret ballot among 175,000 strikers on the question of ending the long and costly work stoppage, now in its 105th day.

The union proposed that members vote whether to return to work on the basis of the company's contract terms, including an 18½ cent hourly increase, or on the basis of the company's offer with the

STASSEN WANTS 'YOUNGER' G.O.P.

Calls On Republicans To Support Move For U. S. Labor Peace Act

WASHINGTON, March 5—Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen today called on Republicans to support a national labor peace act substantially similar to the administration proposal now pending in congress.

Stassen accompanied his suggestion with plug for new and younger blood in party councils. He is 38 years old, the youngest of the top contenders for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the 1944 GOP presidential nominee, is 43.

Ages of the other Republicans possibilities are: Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, 53; Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, Mich., 61; Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio, 56.

Stassen outlined his ideas in an American magazine article. His labor plan follows the pattern of legislation enacted in Minnesota when Stassen was governor in 1939. He said it had substantially reduced the number of strikes and worked so well that it had won "considerable labor support."

Sen. Langer Thinks U. S. Could Use British Loan

WASHINGTON, March 5—The only senator who chews cold cigars without first removing the cellophane, seems to like the proposed loan to Great Britain little more than he does the flavor of tobacco.

Sen. William Langer of N. D., told his cohorts the way he figurged it, the British wanted about $3,750,000,000. Then the statesman from Bismarck introduced a few bills.

One of them called for an appropriation of $3,750,000,000 to give free jeeps, or sedans (if they preferred 'em), to veterans.

Next Sen. Langer presented a bill calling for $3,750,000,000 to give everybody a special health examination. He said there should be more research into the cases of cancer. This might be costly, but that his bill should be sufficient for such study.

Sen. Langer said everybody knew one of the troubles with Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico was that they had no agriculture colleges. He had a bill. It called for $3,750,000,000 to establish such schools.

In 1937, Sen. Langer said, the government loaned some money to farmers and now is trying to get it back. His bill called for these loans to be forgiven. Some $3,750,000,000 worth of them.

Sen. Langer said he'd noticed that the public debt seemed a little high. He had a bill. It called for reduction of same by $3,750,000,000.

All the bills were referred to committees. The senator sat down then and stuck his cigar in his mouth, cellophane still intact.

ATOM SCIENTIST ADMITS TELLING BOMB SECRETS

Researcher's Case Is Linked With Canada's Inquiry Into Spy Ring

LONDON, March 5—Dr. Alan Nunn May, 34, scientist who did atomic research in Canada for the government, was revealed today to have confessed that he gave secret information on atomic energy to a person whose name and nationality he refused to disclose.

May was arraigned in Bow street police court on a charge of violating Britain's official secrets act. Without being required to plead guilty or innocent, he was remanded until March 19.

Inquiries Continue

Prosecutor H. A. K. Morgan told the court that inquiries still were going on in Britain and Canada in connection with the case of the bald, short scientist and university lecturer.

Morgan's statement indicated clearly that May's case was linked with the Canadian spy ring inquiry. May was among the first British atomic energy experts sent to Canada in 1941 to do research in atomic energy. He returned last October to resume his duties as lecturer in physics at King's College, University of London.

Specifically May was charged with having communicated some time last year "for purposes prejudicial to the safety or interest of the state to another person information which was calculated to be or might be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy."

Arraignment Brief

The arraignment lasted only a few minutes. Then May was led back to a cell in the Bow street police station. He wore a smart blue Chesterfield coat and carried a blue Fedora hat.

Morgan opened the proceedings by telling magistrate Harold McKenna that May was being arraigned on "a very serious charge." He added:

"He is charged in his own admission to Lt. Col. Burt of the Intelligence Corps with having communicated information on atomic energy to another person, but he refuses to disclose the name or nationality of the other person."

Detective Only Witness

The only witness called was Detective Inspector William Whitehead of Scotland Yard's special branch. He testified to May's arrest.

"With your permission, I propose only to call evidence or ar-

FOSTER FATHER KILLS FLIER SON

Slayer Takes Own Life After Shooting Ohioan In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 5—George D. Leist, 25, of Columbus, an airlines pilot on leave, was shot and killed in a Washington hotel room by his foster-father, Wilbur Stammler of New York City, who later committed suicide, police reported today.

The pilot's wife said the murder-suicide climaxed an argument over the New Yorker's adoption of her husband.

Police said they found Stammler's body lying across that of Leist in a spacious hotel suite.

Leist and his wife, the former Ruth Lemieux, reportedly were occupants of the same suite with Stammler.

Papers found in the room revealed that Stammler had adopted Leist in Shreveport, La., last week.

In Columbus, Leist's mother, Mrs. M. B. Guthrie, said he had studied music in New York.

Airline officials said Leist was on leave of absence from the company.

10 Years Of Occupation Planned For U. S. Forces In Germany, Clay Reveals

BERLIN, March 5—Lt. Gen. Lucius Clay, head of the American military government in Germany, indicated today that the United States may be planning at least a 10-year occupation.

During a press conference Clay explained that the new German de-nazification law provides sentences as long as 10 years for major offenders.

A correspondent asked "is this the first definite committment that the United States will stay in Germany at least 10 years to see that these sentences are carried out?"

"If the military government can commit the United States—yes," Clay replied.

Clay announced that the military government today turned over to "responsible anti-Nazi Germans" the tremendous job of finding, purging and punishing nearly 2,000,000 Nazis who thus far have eluded the de-nazification drive in the American zone.

A 25-page German written and German enforced law for "liberation from national socialism and militarism" was established to punish scores of German industrialists and financiers who were not indicted as war criminals but without whom Hitler would have been powerless to wage war.

Clay predicted the new law eventually would affect 25 per cent of the 16,000,000 Germans in the United States zone and would result in a half million trials and thousands of appeals.

The law covers all of American occupied Germany except Berlin and Bremen.

CARDINALS KEPT FROM LANDING BY CLOUDINESS

DETROIT, March 5—A plane bearing cardinals Edward Mooney of Detroit and Samuel Stritch of Chicago was unable to land here as scheduled today and continued on to Indianapolis to await clearer weather.

A disappointed crowd of several thousand persons who waited for hours in a drizzling rain was told that the giant TWA constellation bearing the two Cardinals had circled the field and been directed not to land because of a low ceiling.

VINSON URGES BRITISH LOAN

Describes Aid As Hard-Headed Business Deal, Investment In World Peace

WASHINGTON, March 5—Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson asked congress today to approve the $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain as an "investment in world peace and prosperity."

The alternative, he warned, is all-out international warfare of the type that breeds depressions, distrust and war.

Vinson described the loan as a hard-headed bargain—an exchange of American dollar credits for British empire trade preferences—as he opened the administration's fight in its behalf before the senate banking committee.

"The credit is not a gift; it is a

Hole In Ground Is Sold To Pull Navy Out Of Red

NEW YORK, March 5—The W. L. Maxson Corp., engineers and manufacturers, announced today that it had bought a hole in the ground from the United States Navy for $1, and thereby pulled the Navy out of a bookkeeping hole.

The hole, 10 feet long, eight feet wide, and six feet deep, is in a corner of a building at Taftville, Conn. The building and numerous other adjacent properties were purchased by the corporation from the Navy several months ago.

Some time later, the Navy discovered that its itemized items of sale had failed to include the hole, which had been dug to contain airplane propellers. The hole had been entered on Navy ledgers as an asset. The Navy office of material redistribution and disposal at Hartford asked the company would it please make the purchase for $1.

Company officials debated the transaction, considered offering the Navy a truck to haul away the asset, brushed aside a suggestion that they could not buy something which didn't, exist, and sent a check for $1 to the Navy.

The deal was closed when the Navy sent a letter advising the company that "this office has received the prescribed amount and the title is now in possession of the addressee."

PERMANENT TIE ASKED TO HALT RED EXPANSION

Britain's War Leader Rips Communist Grab Of Power In Europe

WANTS ATOM SECRET KEPT

Foresees Possible Common Citizenship Between America, Britain

FULTON, Mo., March 5—Winston Churchill said today that Russia seeks "indefinite expansion" of her "power and doctrines," and called for a permanent Anglo-American military alliance which might some day include common citizenship.

Pointing to the Soviet "shadow" upon "scenes so lately lighted by the Allied victory, the former British Prime Minister called for firm and immediate steps, including establishment of an international armed force by the United Nations Organization, to prevent another war.

Introduced By Truman

Great Britain's wartime leader was introduced by President Truman as he spoke at little Westminster College here, and the president had seen the prepared text before it was delivered.

This small Missouri town and its sedate college campus provided an incongrous setting for Churchill's thundering denunciation of the manner in which Communists in Europe have obtained "power far beyond their numbers, and are seeking to obtain totalitarian control."

Churchill emphasized that he spoke without any official standing, and was merely expressing his own views. Then he made these points in rapid succession:

1. The UNO must "immediately" begin an "international armed force" with each participating nation providing air force units.

2. It would be wrong to give the atomic bomb secrets to UNO. They should be held for the time being by this country, Great Britain and Canada.

Demands Free Elections

3. The people of any nation should be given the right of "free, unfettered elections, with secret ballot. . ."

4. There should be cooperative Anglo-American use of sea and air bases. This would be in continuance of wartime "mutual security."

5. A "special relationship" between this country and the British Commonwealth would be consistent with loyalties to UNO.

6. "Nobody knows what Soviet Russia or its Communist International Organization intends to do in the immediate future, or what are the limits if any to their expansive and proselytizing tendencies."

7. The "Russian Dominated" Polish government has made "enormous and wrongful inroads upon Germany. . ."

8. One of the more "somber facts. . .on the morrow of a victory" is the "growing challenge and peril to christian civilization" caused by "Communist parties or fifth columns," around the world.

English Opinion Favorable

Churchill's speech was the product of much consideration and thought. It had been discussed with Lord Halifax, the British ambassador in this country and personal representative of the British crown.

British sources said it was highly unlikely that Churchill would make such an address if it ran counter to the international policies of the Attlee government, this despite the fact that Churchill is now the opposition leader in parliament.

Churchill and Mr. Truman came here by train from Washington after an overnight ride during which the President saw an advance copy of the speech. Tomorow Mr. Truman speaks at Columbus, O., to a special meeting of the federal council of churches of Christ in America.

Aside from his discussion of Anglo-American cooperation in the use of naval and air bases to keep the peace, Churchill looked on to an admittedly distant era when there might be common citizenship between this country and Great Britain.

"Eventually," he said, "there may come the principle of common citizenship, but that we may be content to leave to destiny, whose out-stretched arms so many of us can clearly see."

The chunky British statesman was blunt and to the point in talking about Russia. He anticipated obvious talk of another war, and then elaborated.

"I repulse the idea that a new war is inevitable," he said.

"still more that it is imminent.

"It is because I am so sure that our fortunes are in our own hands and that we hold the power to save the future, that I feel the duty to speak out now. . . .

"I do not believe that Russia desires war.

"What they desire is the fruits of war and the indefinite expansion of their power and doctrines."

Urges Quick Settlement

As a means of establishing freedom and democracy in all nations, Churchill recommended a settlement which he predicted would be increasingly difficult to achieve the longer it is delayed.

"This can only be achieved by reaching now, in 1946, a good understanding on all points with Russia under the general authority of the United Nations organization," he continued, "and by the maintenance of that good understanding through many peaceful years, by the world instrument, supported by the whole strength of the English-speaking world and all its connections."

He was not entirely critical or questioning of Russia. He paid particular tribute to his wartime comrade, Generalissimo Josef V. Stalin, and the heroism of the Russian people.

He welcomed Russia to her "rightful place among the leading nations of the world."

Describes Red Pressures

But he added that he thought it was his duty to offer certain facts about "the present positions in Europe."

He then described country by country the pressure being applied in Europe by Russia and/or the

He predicted "serious difficulties" in the British and American occupation zones "if the Soviet government tries, by separate action, to build up a pro-communist Germany in their areas."

Such action by Russia, he added, would "give the defeated Germans the power of putting themselves up to auction between the Soviets and the western democracies."

"Whatever conclusions may be drawn from those facts—and facts they are—this is certainly not the liberated Europe we fought to build up," Churchill said. "Nor is it one which contains the essentials of permanent peace."

Lists "Somber Facts"

He continued to add to his list of "somber facts" about Europe.

He blamed Communism for a shaky Italian future. He credited Communism—working in "complete unity and absolute obedience" to orders from the "Communist Center"—for injuring the prospects of "a strong France."

"These are somber facts," he said in summation, "for anyone to have to recite on the morrow of a victory gained by so much splendid comradeship in arms and in the cause of freedom and democracy, and we would be most unwise not to face them squarely while time remains."

Into his world picture he fitted an "anxious outlook" in the far East, especially in Manchuria, but declined to go into detail except to record that the Yalta agreement involving Manchuria was "extremely favorable" to Russia.

RIOTS RENEWED IN ALEXANDRIA

CAIRO, March 5—Egyptian police fired on anti-British demonstrators in Alexandria today in a renewal of rioting in which more than 17 persons were killed and more than 300 wounded yesterday.

An undermined number of casualties were caused when police opened fire at Alexandria. Victims were taken to hospitals in ambulances.

Premier Ismail Sidky announced that he had ordered police to use their batons before resorting to other force in dealing with the demonstrators.

Sidky arrived in Alexandria from Cairo and set out to investigate the damage in yesterday's rioting. His car was halted by a crowd shouting "we want evacuation" (of the British) and returned to the governor's building.

YANK OFFICERS NET $50,000 ON BLACK MARKET

TOKYO, March 5—Four American officers, held for exchanging U. S. currency illegally for Japanese Yen, made nearly $50,000 profit in the money black market, the Criminal Investigation Division of Allied Headquarters disclosed today.

The four, as yet unidentified, were arrested between March 1 and 4 along with seven Japanese after a fire in a Japanese brokerage house led to discovery of papers outlining their transactions.

The Japanese admitted giving a million Yen to an American officer in exchange for $25,000 in American money.

For this country, Vinson said, the loan means higher production of farm and factory goods; for Britain it represents a chance to feed her peoples and rebuild her factories; and for the world it offers "a genuine chance for lasting peace."

Vinson told the committee that failure to grant the credit would drive Britain into paralyzing trade restrictions, force this country to resort to counter-action and lead inevitably to economic chaos on a world-wide basis.

Franco cooled in his ardor to get Spanish "living space" in Africa—his "price" for entering the war on the side of the Axis. And by the end of 1943 he was making fabulous excuses to Hitler for "concessions" to the Allies in a mad race to change his foreign policy from violent pro-Axis to a neutrality acceptable to the Allies.

Played Both Sides

The documents reveals that during the war Franco played both sides of the street, changing his course whenever necessary to appease the side which seemed most likely to win the war.

It was the same man who, 24 hours before the United States, France and Britain issued their demarche, beat them to the gun. It was learned that when the declaration was issued last night, the state department had already received a note from Franco making it "crystal clear" that he would not quit under threats or pressure by any power or combination of powers.

There was little doubt that Franco will be a hard man for the United Nations to oust—especially without another bloody civil war in Spain. But if they succeed they will make both Hitler and Franco oracles in one respect—that the defeat of Germany would mean Franco's end.

Stood With Hitler

On Feb. 6, 1941, Hitler wrote Franco:—"only in the case of our victory will the present (Spanish) regime continue to exist."

And on Feb. 26, 1941, Franco replied to Hitler:—"I want to declare that I stand at your side, entirely and decidedly at your disposal, united in a common historical destiny, desertion from which would mean my suicide and that of the cause which I have led and represent in Spain."

In congress, Rep. John M. Vorys, R., O., and William B. Barry, D., N. Y., contended that the anti-Franco declaration marked a violation of America's traditional policy of non-interference in the internal affairs of other countries.

Intervention Assailed

"If you appeal to the Spanish people to overthrow Franco and have a free election," Barry said, "why not appeal to the Russians to throw Stalin out and have a free election over there, too?"

Chairman Sol Bloom, D., N. Y., of the house foreign affairs committee, denied any intervention was involved. The declaration, he said, merely gives the Spanish people an idea of the way the "people who want to see Spain succeed are thinking."

Rep. Hugh Delacy, D., Wash., long standing foe of the Franco regime, termed the declaration "great stuff." Rep. Luther A. Johnson, D., Tex., of the foreign affairs committee, felt the state department was handling the Spanish issue "exceedingly well."

understanding that issues still in dispute be submitted to arbitration.

In other major labor developments:

1. Production was resumed at the huge River Rouge plant and three other Michigan Ford Motor Co. factories, as 38,000 workers returned following a six-week layoff.

2. The CIO longshoremen's union and waterfront employers agreed to resume joint negotiations on a 1946 contract, ending immediate threat of a strike of approximately 22,000 Pacific coast dockworkers.

Control Bill Rejected

3. The senate labor committee refused to approve the drastic strike-control bill passed by the house and began hearings on less stringent measures.

Conciliation director Warren said today's meeting was a "continuation" of negotiations broken off yesterday by Telephone union and company officials.

If the outlook for a wage settlement by collective bargaining appeared unfavorable, he said, arbitration, fact-finding and other machinery would be discussed.

Although the long lines union claims only 19,000 members, 16 other affiliates of the national federation of Telephone workers voted two weeks ago for simultaneous walkouts in support of wage demands.

The UAW's suggestion for ending the longstanding General Motors strike followed an exchange of peace proposals during the week end.

Union Seeks Arbitration

The union first offered to order its members back to work if the company would agree to arbitration of the entire dispute. GM, in turn, rejected arbitration, proposing instead that the strikers vote on whether to return to work for the 18½ cent raise. The union then accepted the idea of a vote, but asked the corporation to let the workers decide the arbitration issue.

Under the UAW's latest suggestion, the strike would end if the company agreed to the union's version of the vote and as soon as the results were known.

HOUSING BILL BACKERS RALLY TO SAVE PLAN

Coalition Eliminates "Heart" Of Truman's Program For Veterans

WASHINGTON, March 5—House supporters of the Patman housing bill, shaken by two straight setbacks, rallied today for an effort to salvage something from the President's veterans housing program.

A triumphant coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats joined yesterday in eliminating what Mr. Truman called "the heart" of his program—federal subsidies to encourage production of scarce building materials.

Support Price Controls

Backers of the Patman bill said they would try today to push through the controversial issue of putting price controls on new homes. If they succeed, they will make another attempt to put used homes under price ceilings.

They conceded, however, that their chances of success were slim. Rep. A. S. (Mike) Monroney, D., Okla., who had such an amendment ready, predicted that the substitute Wolcott bill would be introduced in the house at once.

"It probably will be adopted and any further amendments to the Patman bill won't have a ghost of a chance," he said.

The substitute bill, prepared by Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott, R., Mich., would attempt to control prices on new homes by limiting the amount of mortgage insurance the national housing administration would be permitted to write.

No Control Seen

Patman's camp contended that this merely would result in contractors requiring would-be purchasers to have a larger down payment, resulting in no price control at all.

The proposal to turn over $600,000,000 to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. for subsidy purposes was defeated by a teller vote of 161 to 92 despite the President's plea that it was vital to his program.

Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt immediately denounced the action as "a blow at the heart of the veterans' emergency housing program."

"If I were a veteran hunting for a home," he said, "I would be rather disheartened tonight—a little perplexed and not a little angry. . .

"We cannot provide the homes needed for veterans without premium payments. We shall continue to fight for them."

Wyatt said earlier that without subsidies, the government could not achieve its goal of 2,700,000 new homes within the next two years. The majority of the new construction was to be earmarked for veterans and hardship cases.

Brown Leads Opposition

The vote came on an amendment introduced by Monroney who said subsidies would encourage smaller producers who now can not operate at a profit under OPA price ceilings.

The opposition was led by Wolcott and Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R., O., who charged that the administration was proposing to give Wyatt $600,000,000 to spend "as he pleases."

Brown contended the administration would achieve 90 per cent of its goal without subsidies.

The Patman bill also would create a national housing "czar" with authority to channel scarce building materials into areas of greatest needs and would give veterans preference on available housing.

Housing Shortage Spurs Upswing In Divorce Rate

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 5—Doubling-up of young married couples with their in-laws during the housing shortage will shoot the nation's divorce rate skyward in the next five years, Harvard sociologist Carle C. Zimmerman predicted today.

It's a case of too many cooks spoiling the family broth, as Prof. Zimerman sees it.

"Getting along in married life is tough enough without having others listen in or butt in on quarrels and disagreements," he said. "In a world that looks upon divorce as an easy and honorable remedy for marital ills, we may expect a tremendous upsurge of divorces as the immediate result of doubling-up.

"The present rate of 275 divorces in every 1,000 marriages is high, but it will go much higher before 1951."

One of the nation's foremost authorities on family sociology, Prof. Zimmtrman believes you can't have two "bosses"—either in the kitchen or at the shaving bowl.

"A couple would be better in a trailer or a quonset hut by themselves than in a palace with their in-laws," he said, hastening to explain that he nursed no grudge against in-laws in general.

But the in-laws themselves don't have to worry. Prof. Zimmerman thinks it's a safe bet that the doubling-up process won't hurt them a bit.

When a husband and wife have lived together long enough to become in-laws," he said, "they have a substantial handicap in that death-do-us-part race."

SAVOLD, GODOY SUSPENDED

CHICAGO, March 5—Heavyweights Lee Savold and Arturo Godoy of Chile, were suspended today by the Illinois Athletic Commission for an "indefinite period" following their "no contest" bout here last Friday. The bout was halted in the eighth round because of lack of action.

Jap Government Modeled On British Plan Is Urged

TOKYO, March 5—Yukio Ozaka, veteran Japanese parliamentarian, sent to the cabinet today a plan to revise Japan's constitution along the lines of the British monarchial system.

Ozaka's plan was submitted as Japanese press reports said the cabinet had rejected the first official draft of the revised constitution and had decided to draw up another version along "more democratic lines."

Ozaka's plan would minimize the emperor's political powers, limiting his activities to sanctioning laws, convoking diet sessions, appointing officials, conferring honors and concluding treaties which would require the diet's approval.

"It is most necessary that the emperor be given such minimum powers," Ozaka said, "because the emperor should continue as the central figure of Japanese society."

The power of government would be left in the hands of the diet and the cabinet and the latter would be responsible to the diet under Ozaka's version. The diet would be composed of two houses. However, the present house of peers would be abolished and replaced by a consulting body.

Ozaka also recommended important provisions of the Imperial household law be included in the new constitution. In this connection, he recommended establishment of provisions providing for the emperor's abdication. No such provision exists in the present constitution.

The draft also strongly recommended absolute guarantee of freedom of the press and speech.

TRUMAN, DULLES WILL ADDRESS CHURCH COUNCIL

Talks To Highlight 3-Day Session On Postwar Issues In Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., March 5—Post-war problems and their relationship with the responsibilities of American churches will highlight a three-day special meeting of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, which opened today in Columbus.

An address by President Harry Truman before a plenary session Wednesday will be broadcast on all networks at 12 noon (EST).

Other sessions that deal with world order and post-war reconstruction will be addressed by leaders who recently returned from the United Nations Organization conference and the World Council of Churches.

Dulles Will Report

John Foster Dulles will report on the UNO general assembly in London.

A radio-dinner address this afternoon will be given by Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America.

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, council president, will preside at the three-day conference, which will discuss present day needs on "world order, community tensions, returning service personnel, Evangelism and Foreign Relief."

Sectional discussions will be held on each of the five topics. Findings later will be presented to plenary sessions for debate and action.

Evangelism will be discussed by E. G. Homrighausen, chairman of the department of Evangelism, at the opening session today. Henry Sloane Coffin, chairman of the department of research and education, will talk on community tensions.

Veterans To Be Topic

Returning servicemen and women will be the topic presented to the conference by Roy A. Burkhart, chairman of the servicemen's committee. Foreign Relief will be covered by Ralph E. Diffendorfer, vice-chairman of the church committee on relief and reconstruction.

Dulles, chairman of the commission on a Just and Durable Peace, will head the discussion group on "world order".

Rep. Walter Judd, R., Minn., physician and former missionary to China, will talk at the Ash Wednesday services.

Members of the council were elected by the 25 constituent denominations that comprise the group.

After the "five areas of need" are discussed by the group leaders, efforts will be made to learn what church resources are available to cope with these problems.

Membership To Be Divided

The membership then will be divided into five sections for detailed study of the church programs in each of the five fields.

A similar special meeting was held after the first World War in May 1919.

The federal council is composed of the Northern Baptist Convention, National Baptist convention, Church of the Brethren, Congregational Christian Churches, Disciples of Christ, Evangelical Church, Evangelical and Reformed Church, Friends, Methodist Church, African Methodist Episcopal Church, African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America, Moravian Church, Presbyterian Church in U. S. (South), Presbyterian Church in USA, Protestant Episcopal Church, Reformed Church in America, Russian Orthodox Church in America, Seventh Day Baptist Churches, Syrian Antiochian Orthodox Church of North America, United Brethren Church, Ukrainian Orthodox Church of America, United Church of Canada, United Lutheran Church of America (Consultative) and United Presbyterian Church.

Confesses Murder

JOSEPH Luther Woolridge, 29, Negro slaughter house worker, is pictured at Pendleton, Ind., after confessing the double murder of Russell Koontz, 43, and Mrs. Phyllis Coleman, 33, at their trysting place in an abandoned stone mill near Bloomingdale, Ind. Woolridge said he murdered the married business executive and his attractive sweetheart after he accidentally stumbled into their hideout and became involved in an argument with Koontz.

JANITOR ADMITS CHOIR SLAYINGS

Negro Charged With Murder Of Comely Singer And Indiana Businessman

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 5—Joseph Woolridge, 29, negro janitor who confessed the slaying of a businessman and a comely choir singer whose illicit romance caused a church scandal, today faced a first degree murder charge.

Woolridge was charged with premeditated murder in the slaying of Mrs. Phyllis Coleman, 33. Prosecutor Robert McCrae said a charge for the slaying of Russell Koontz, 43, would be withheld until a grand jury determines whether the slayer's claims of self defense is valid. McCrae said the grand jury would be convened tomorrow.

Woolridge said in his confession that he was hunting groundhogs Friday when he happened upon Koontz and Mrs. Coleman in an abandoned shed near a stone quarry. They were lying on the floor in an embrace, the slayer said.

The slayer said that when Koontz made a lunge for him "I picked up a piece of iron and throwed it at his head."

He said he strangled Mrs. Coleman to prevent her from implicating him in the slaying of Koontz.

The romance between Koontz and Mrs. Coleman, both of whom were married and childless, created gossip among the congregation of the Christian church in the village of Clear Creek, where they sang together in the choir.

Robert Woods was sent from Camp Atterbury to Ft. Belvoir, Virginia.

3 DIE IN BLAST, FURNITURE FIRE AT CLEVELAND

3 Women Saved From Roof; Flames Start As Burning Waste Explodes

CLEVELAND, March 5—Three men were killed when fire, started by an explosion, swept the Bonhard Art Furniture Company building here today.

Three women were rescued from the fire-swept roof of the building.

The dead:

Joseph Herkender, 62, a cabinetmaker for the company.

Andrew Wendorfer, company shipping clerk.

A third body was believed that of Matthew Orzak, another employee.

Louis Levine, 57, an employee who leaped from a third-story window to escape the flames, was in St. Vincent hospital with burns on the face and hands, cuts and bruises.

The three women rescued from the roof by firemen were Jessie Bertsch, Gertrude Holtivick and Pauline Nemes.

Raymond Bonhard, co-owner of the store, said the blaze started when a furnace, used for burning waste, exploded. The flames spread quickly through the three-story shop behind the store.

Hundreds of down town shoppers witnessed the blaze, battled by nine fire companies for more than two hours.

The three killed were working near the furnace.

Firemen estimated damage to the building and its contents at $50,000.

Workers Toil To Remove Rest Of 27 Air Victims

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 5—Rescue workers, driven off by a blizzard and darkness, struggled back today to the icy mountainside crash of an American airliner in which 27 died to grope for nine bodies in the charred tangle of the fuselage.

Sixteen bodies were lowered down a steep cliff to a caravan of ambulances waiting at the end of trail before the freezing weather halted the task last night. The bodies of two infants were brought out earlier.

The victims, most of whom were burned beyond recognition, were brought to mortuaries here.

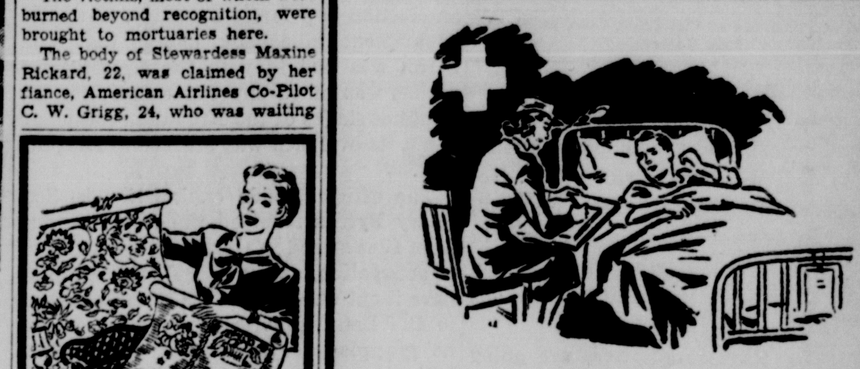

The body of Stewardess Maxine Rickard, 22, was claimed by her fiance, American Airlines Co-Pilot C. W. Grigg, 24, who was waiting for her plane when he learned of the crash. They were to have been married this week.

Sheriff's deputies who directed a 50-man Navy crew in the grim task of gathering the bodies said they believed most of the rest were in the wreckage.

The search was delayed while bulldozers and hand axes were brought into use to push the trail through the last two miles to within 1,000 yards of the spot on the steep slope of 6,000-foot Terra Blanca peak where the plane crashed early Sunday on the final leg of a flight from New York.

CURRENT ECONOMICS

THE puzzles that were lately military are now economic and the hopes and fears have to deal with wages and prices. Nobody seems to understand them very well, but nearly everybody can and does talk about them, trying to grasp what is going on, and what it will mean to him and his family and associates.

Obviously wages and prices are going up, but it is impossible to say how far or how fast. The slower the process is, the better. The worst thing would be "runaway inflation" such as various foreign countries have experienced. There is no indication of such a calamity here so far, and presumably no need of its occurrence, for the American people seem to be going about their affairs as usual, though their consciousness of price-increase is deepening. Some price-rising is expected, but in general the view is that it need not be any more than the American public wants to make it.

Strikes and buying to hoard are inflationary. Increased production combats the inflationary trend and helps everyone.

The main thing in such matters is calmness and self-control.

GOODBYE, SARAWAK

ONE more small country is no more. Sarawak is being ceded to Great Britain. Thus ends the saga of the Brooke family. The first of the line, Sir James Brooke, received Sarawak in 1842 as a concession from the sultan of Brunei. Thus he realized his boyhood ambition to be a king. Ever since then Sarawak has remained in his family, a country as big as New York or North Carolina and containing 500,000 people.

Now the latest of the Brookes, 72-year-old Sir Charles, is turning his state over to the British. Probably the war influenced his decision. Sarawak was not big enough to stand up against the Japanese, and against almost any foe would have to call in outside aid. But Sarawak, as one more unit in the British empire, will be far less picturesque than as an independent state established by the genius of a soldier of fortune.

PLANE PARTS FOR PEACE

CALIFORNIANS are finding a lot of new uses for the fuel cells that once were attached to American fighter planes. A ready market for these has developed since they have been found useful for cattle feeding troughs, chicken coops, fishing boats, gas storage tanks and bathtubs. It's the up-to-the minute version of the old sword-into-ploughshares idea. It's good to think the time has come when they can be used for something that isn't going to cost American lives.

A doctor suggests that a serum may be discovered some day that will make everybody a genius. Haven't we enough trouble getting along with each other now!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 5—The Argentine election failed to furnish much substance for determination of a successful American foreign policy—now involved in sharp inner debate on the primary problem of how to treat with Russia and her Communism around the world.

Never before has the United States so boldly and openly attempted to influence an election in a foreign country. The state department blue book charge that Col. Peron was tied in with the Nazi Fascist regime was timed unprecedentedly for the final hot stages of the Argentine campaign—but its evidence was all incontrovertibly true.

The official inside explanation is, Secretary Byrnes received the evidence, dug from files seized in Germany by our Army of occupation, only a short time before he gave it out officially in his book addressed to the Latin American republics. I hear he grappled for two hours in his office with the problem of whether to time the publication before the election or after. Personally he made the decision.

Peron, of course, not only had the backing of Argentine remnants of Fascism, but the labor vote, or the support of labor leaders. The Byrnes Blue Book was inwardly directed toward alienating his labor groups, and did in fact change the electoral prospects from a sure-thing for Peron into a question of uncertainty. While Peron's opponent, Tamborini, had the support of Communists, the Russian following in Argentine is not strong now, due to the Catholic religious beliefs of the population. Tamborini's following ran into all groups.

Yet a Tamborini victory could not be counted upon to end the issue. Our authorities suspected it might be followed by a revolutionary coup d'etat, with or without military action. This implication was not dispelled by Peron himself in the announcement that he would not retire from politics, if defeated.

With this Argentine exception, the news of every passing day makes it more glaringly evident that the Democratic world has not found satisfactory methods of curing its own weaknesses, or extricating itself from the role of dupe for Communism into which role the joint war plunged us.

On the very day the Democratic British frontpaged their army mutinies not only in far-off India but at Aldershot in England itself, a paragraph news item from Communist-led Bulgaria reported suppression of a newspaper for ten days for writing something which could be interpreted as harmful to their army "unity."

The precise nature of our deficiencies in self-leadership, however, can be seen better behind the news that nine of the new American (south and north) cardinals spurned a dinner at the Spanish embassy—but not New York's Cardinal Spellman. This was a social affair, and no doubt can easily be over-interpreted as a major diplomatic event. But in it are the same seeds of our own foreign policy confusion.

What do we want in Spain? Offhand you would say we want abolition of Franco and Fascism. Of course we do. This is what the nine cardinals who remained away said by their act. But do we not want more than that? Truly what we want is a democratic Spain, a friendly and honestly democratic Spain.

We have just seen in this war that when Fascism was abolished in Bulgaria, Poland, we did not get friendly democracies in their place, but resistant and censorious (of us and Britain) Communists. Are we going to be so stupid as to do the same

Reasons For Pain in the Right Side of the Abdomen

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PAIN in the right side of the abdomen is often due to appendicitis. This does not mean that all cases of right-sided pain come from this cause. In the same way increased frequency of emptying the bladder with pain and the presence of pus in the urine, is often caused by an inflammation of the bladder known as cystitis, but this does not mean that many other disorders may not produce these symptoms.

Hence, when such bladder symptoms occur, a careful study is needed to tell just what disorder is present. Furthermore, according to Dr. Herman L. Kretschmer of Chicago, the cystitis or inflammation of the bladder may in turn be produced by various other disturbances. Sometimes the cystitis develops following an operation. It sometimes recurs at intervals because of an infection in the pelvis or the kidney.

Bladder Symptoms

Bladder symptoms may also be produced by constipation or by inflammation of the colon or large intestine due to the excessive use of cathartics. Tuberculosis of the kidney may be followed by tuberculosis infection of the bladder. Infection in the lymph glands in the neck, and bone infections, often may lead to bladder symptoms, such as frequent emptying. Diseases of the womb, of the tubes, or of the ovaries, may be responsible for frequent urination and pus in the urine.

To complete the diagnosis, an examination of the bladder by means of a cystoscope is important. The cystoscope is an instrument made up of a tube with a light on the end of it, which can be passed into the bladder, thus allowing the bladder to be inspected by the physician. If it is found upon such examination that the bladder is normal, further study of the ureters, which lead from the kidney to the bladder, and the kidneys as well, is necessary.

Immediate Treatment

Once a definite diagnosis of cystitis is made, treatment should be started at once. This according to Dr. Kretschmer consists of complete rest in bed during the early stages, the giving of drugs to quiet the patient and relieve pain, and the application of heat to the bladder area, that is, over the lower part of the abdomen.

For from seven to ten days, some alkaline substance such as baking soda or potassium citrate is given to make the urine alkaline. Then a drug known as hexamethylenamine may be administered when the urine is acid again. If constipation is present, it should be overcome by proper treatment, but the giving of strong laxatives is inadvisable.

If these simple measures do not relieve the cystitis, it is probable that there is some complication present which is causing the condition to continue. Further treatment consists in finding this complicating factor if that is possible and getting rid of it.

A JOB FOR JENNY

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

THEY HAD left the town, they were riding out on a country road. The trees were still, in the windless hot night, their heavy foliage smelling of dust.

Steve said, "Well, okay, so it's none of my business."

Jenny was silent, then she said, "No, it isn't. And you are making an issue of nothing. We went walking, and he kissed me. He didn't mean anything. It was quite harmless. Or do you still believe in leprechauns and Santa Claus? Have you intended marriage every time you kissed a girl?" she inquired. "That's mental bigamy. You've even kissed ME," said Jenny, "and I don't seem to remember that you followed it up with any formal proposal."

He said violently, "Jenny, this is different. I don't expect you to reach the age of 20 without having someone make love to you. But this man. Good Lord, you work for him and he's married!"

She said wearily, "The needle always sticks at that part of the record. Steve, did you ever kiss a married woman?"

To her astonishment he laughed. He said, "Several of them. One slapped me, one told me when her husband would be away on a fishing trip, and the other burst into tears."

"Well," said Jenny, "then don't be stuffy."

He said gently, "Jenny, you're just a kid. And this is a small town. People are bound to talk. I'd like to spare you that if I could. And you might . . ." He hesitated. "Tell me one thing. Are you in love with him?"

"Why?"

He said, "Because if you are . . . that changes the picture, doesn't it? Are you?"

"Nope," said Jenny cheerfully, "not in the least."

Steve stopped the car before a farmhouse, the lawn in front ragged, the lilacs overgrown. He said, "I'm darned if I know whether that makes it worse or better."

She waited for him in the darkness, smelling the scent of unknown flowers, hearing the drowsy conversation of the birds. The lights glowed in the windows and presently Steve stood on the steps talking to an anxious woman. Jenny could see her, as the light from the hall streamed out . . . a little woman in a blue house frock, an apron around her waist. Steve looked tall and thin and his voice was quiet and reassuring, although Jenny could not hear what he said. She was filled suddenly with pride in him, in what he was doing. He could be a very big man, she thought, as big as his father. If he could see things as his father saw them.

He came back and got into the car, putting his bag in the back seat. He said, "Kid with a stomach ache. His mother was sure it was an appendix. It wasn't. I wish to heaven we had that hospital," he said, sighing. "There was a kid did have an appendix the other night. I got him to Northam, but it was touch and go."

She said, "Keep working on Mary and you'll get one."

"I don't like your tone," he said sharply, "but as far as that goes, if you're civic minded you'll use your influence with your boss."

"Here we go again!" said Jenny.

They were still quarreling when he left her at the door of her house.

Gram popped out of the kitchen. "Did Steve come in?" she asked. "I made iced coffee. Mrs. Harmon's gone."

"He scrammed," said Jenny.

Gram sighed. She said, "You two always fought, but it seems to me you're worse since he came back."

Jenny said, "He's impossible."

"You should make allowances. Perhaps he thinks you're impossible, too," Gram said.

"Maybe I am," said Jenny, and went into the kitchen to get a glass of iced coffee and a cooky. Ede came downstairs presently and joined them. She hadn't stayed long at Agnes'. They sat and talked with Gram until Ede yawned and went up to bed. And Jenny said reflectively, "Gram, I think I'm getting into trouble."

"Care to tell me about it?" Gram asked.

"No," said Jenny. She ruffled the white hair with her hand. "It isn't real trouble," she said, "just a carbon copy. Undertaken, I may add, with the best of motives. Don't worry, darling," she added, "I'll claw my way out."

She washed the glasses, turned out the lights, and presently she and Gram went upstairs to bed.

A week or so later Steve and Mary drove to Portland to see Mr. Foster. They left early in the morning and would be back that night. Dr. Barton had insisted upon it. Mr. Hathaway had been called to New York and could not go, but Foster was leaving for the West Coast the following week and wanted to discuss the plans before he left. Dr. Barton said, "I'll follow it up, Steve. I can take over for a way . . . don't worry. This means too much for us all."

Steve considered that. His father was right. He had, as it happened, no very sick patients. His father promised that Dr. Mathews would take any emergency calls during the evening.

"Go along," he told Steve, who was still hesitant. "Nothing can happen. I swear I won't climb a stair, I won't exert myself in the least degree. I'll call Matthews, I'll simply sit here in the office and take the appointments."

Steve and Mary did not get back until early morning and at about 11 o'clock Jenny, on her way up to bed, heard the fire signal shrieking across the town. She counted the signals and went to the telephone in the hall to look at the signal locations printed on a piece of cardboard and thumbtacked to the wall. She said aloud, "Why, that's near the Barnacle."

She ran upstairs and burst into Ede's room and Gram called up from the living room where she was setting things to rights, "I wonder where the fire is—"

Jenny shouted, "Out near the Barnacle." She said to Ede, who was lying in bed reading, "There aren't many houses in that district. . . . Ede, suppose it should be the juke-box place. It's bound to be full of kids this time of night."

Ede sat up. She said, horrified, "Oh, Jenny, no, that would be horrible."

Jenny flew downstairs and met Gram coming up. She said, "I'm going to phone and find out."

Living in a small town you know your telephone operator. The Newtons' wire was a party line. It was busy. Mrs. Allen again. Jenny could hear her voice, talking interminably, with no interruptions from the person on the other end. She broke in. She said, "Mrs. Allen, this is Jenny Newton. I am going to call the telephone office and ask about the fire."

"Why, Jenny," said Mrs. Allen, "haven't you heard? Its the Barnacle. I'm just talking to Mrs. Dillon . . . she can see the flames from her upstairs window."

Jenny hung up. She went and sat on the bottom step and Gram peered over the banister and Ede came downstairs in her nightgown. Jenny said, "It's the Barnacle, all right."

Gram said soothingly, "Perhaps it isn't a bad fire, dear, and surely even if the place was filled there are plenty of exits. It's one story, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Jenny, "and on the water. But it's just a matchbox and if the fire takes hold and the kids are panicked . . ." She shivered. Then she said suddenly, "Some are bound to be hurt . . . and the nearest hospital—" She broke off. "Gram! Steve isn't here. If the fire's bad they'll call all the doctors. Uncle Bert will go—"

The telephone rang.

Jenny ran to it, and they could hear her saying, "Yes," and then, "yes, of course. Right away."

"Who was it?" asked Gram and Ede simultaneously.

Jenny said, "Mrs. Hammond . . . she's calling for me . . . they're going out to the fire to set up a first-aid center in the nearest house. It's very bad."

"The Authority on Authorities"

EASIEST SUIT TO READ

NO SUIT is easier to read than a long one in which a conventional player has led an honor against a No Trump game. If it is the king, you know he has the ace or queen, plus at least one card from the J, 10 or 9. If it is the Q, you know he has not the K, has the J and at least one other card from the A, 10 and 9. If it is the J, you know he has not the Q, but has the 10 and at least one card from the A, K, 9 and 8. If it is the 10, you know he has the 9 and at least one card from the A, K and Q.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♦
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

West led his heart J, which for some reason infuriated East, who had intended his diamond bid partly as a lead director in case the opponents got into No Trumps. So, when his heart K held the first trick, he switched at once to his diamond K, though disgruntled at having had his side entry in hearts already knocked out of his hand.

South was tickled by this development, and promptly ran nine tricks by succeeding with the spade finesse. That gave him three spades, plus five in clubs and one in diamonds.

If East had not been a lazy bones, he would have seen that the heart lead offered a sure set of the contract. The jack lead made certain that West did not have the Queen, which was marked with South. It also guaranteed West's possession of the 10, and at least one other card from among the A, 9 and 8, since the J is conventionally led from a suit headed by A-J-10, K-J-10, J-10-9 or J-10-8. The K, 9 and 8 were all in view to East, so West was bound to have the A. Reading thus, he should have returned his heart 8, trapping the Q and giving his side five immediate heart tricks.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, March 5

AN unforeseen turn in the tide of events may be expected to open up sudden and long-range developments, having much bearing on the future and its successful march toward progress, romance, adventure and advanced goals in all treasured directions.

This should be avidly embraced with a rich measure of co-operation of others of productive tone of mind. However, since there are subtle and intriguing undercurrents, it would be wise to take no chances without calm consideration and sagacious investigation. Take nothing for granted and surprising denouements are in sight.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should grasp shrewdly, practically, with acid test and analysis, a sudden opening to attaining high adventure, romance, with far-reaching and radical culminations of deeply cherished hopes and wishes. Of sudden and radical import, yet such excellent chances could be disintegrated or demolished by hasty ill-planning and taking too much for granted, although it is advisable to work constructively in co-operation with others well equipped for pleasant and lucrative objectives.

A child born on this day will have splendid talents, with originality, ingenuity, high spirit of adventure as well as keenly attuned mind to grasp exceptional opportunities and romance as well.

U. S. Remaining Aloof From Canadian Spy Probe, But— | Farm Areas Irked by Talk Of Agriculture's Anderson

Special to Central Press

● WASHINGTON—The United States officially has remained aloof from the Canadian espionage ring investigation, but significant developments in Washington show that the nation has been thoroughly alerted to the dangers of international snooping.

The important Senate atomic energy committee, headed by Senator Brian McMahon (D) of Connecticut, has plunged into a study of the old Espionage Act of 1917 to determine whether its provisions are sufficiently strong to guard America's great atom secret.

Senator Brian McMahon

In closed chamber sessions at the Capitol, the committee is conferring on this subject with such experts as FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, Army director of the war-time A-bomb project.

Other experts are being called by the committee for advice, including James McInerney, chief of the justice department espionage section.

Whether such precautions will be extended to the Army-Navy tests of the A-bomb in the Pacific in May remains to be seen, but observers have predicted virtual war-time security regulations over the experiments.

This of necessity would extend to members of the United Nations atomic energy commission, whom President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes wish to invite to witness the tests.

The House rules committee has just approved the bill permitting the use of naval vessels in the test.

This measure includes a strong provision barring the secretaries of war and Navy from disclosing any test results "prejudicial" to the best interests of the United States.

Groves has warned of ever-increasing leaks on the bomb secret during the last month, but has explained that his admonition was based on loose talking in this country and not on events in Canada.

● RUMORS ARE SPREADING through national agricultural circles that Clinton P. Anderson's days are numbered as secretary of agriculture.

The former New Mexico congressman, the rumors say, is fast losing votes for the administration in rural areas, where the administration needs votes.

His assertion that this administration's commitments to the farmer are not any more sacred than the president's commitments to hungry Europe brought angry growls from the Republican midwest and the "fringe" farm states.

The political strategists maintain that once Bob Hannegan, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee, swings out to the farmlands prior to the coming congressional elections, he will discover the anti-administration feeling among the farmers.

To make amends, they predict, he will be forced to "relieve" the party at the source of the trouble.

Anderson has said publicly that the administration may have to back down on its price ceiling and support commitments to United States farmers. This is dynamite in the farm belt.

Food Picture Gloomy

Furthermore, these sources point out that the nation's food picture is not so good from the long range point of view.

While people are eating well now, there are indications that tremendous demands on the food supply at home and boosted requirements from foreign nations will bring on a food shortage comparable to that experienced during the war.

All of which bodes ill for Anderson, the rumor boys say.

Miss Tallant is national vice president for the Fifth Service Command District of the Women's Overseas Service League. She has had a year of Red Cross Hospital Service at the Veterans Hospital in Evansville, Indiana. Three of Miss Tallant's books can be found in the Circleville Public Library: Danny and Prue, David and Patience; and The Girl who was Marge.

In her address, Miss Tallant read headline news on peace, excerpts from various periodicals and gave her personal views on them. Some of the topics she covered were: United Nations Relief Rehabilitation Administration, United Nations Organization, race prejudices, illiteracy, religious persecutions, food problems, difficulties in the Pacific area.

Miss Tallant feels that the UNO will be the solution for world peace and as time goes on it will continue to develop and set up international laws and courts for settling difficulties.

INDIANAPOLIS (U.P.)—A discharged serviceman, Claude B. Overturf, became so disheartened by having every prospective apartment door slammed in his face because he had two small daughters that he decided to turn the tables on persons averse to children. He found a home and redecorated it. Then he advertised the second floor for rent only to veterans with children.

thing now by diplomacy in Spain, to lose that too by delivering it into the hands of Communism?

Our foreign policy now says that we should force Franco out. It is purely negative, and thus plays the game of the Communists more than our own. It neglects entirely the affirmative job to be done in Spain, lest we lose Democratic friendship there, too, in victory as we have lost so much of Europe.

This is what the wiser Cardinal Spellman seemed to say by his attendance at the dinner. (It probably means he will become vatican State Secretary.) If we are to win in Spain, we must get in there, get some friends there for our side, get as many friends as the Communists have there; and we cannot do it by the shortsighted, purely hateful, half worked-out negative policy we have now.

The Democratic nations will never win in their treating with the Soviets until they get on to these finer points of the game.

MAULER FIGHTS FOR RADIO SPOT

Dempsey Takes Adam Hat Broadcasts At $100,000 A Year Salary

NEW YORK, March 5—Boxing's radio war was intensified today as Jack Dempsey, ex-heavyweight, champion took command of the pro-motorial forces combatting Mike Jacobs—at a salary of $100,000 a year.

This salary is provided for in two contracts, for six years each, with the Adam Hat corporation, major radio sponsor of bouts outside of New York City.

Under contract No. 1, the 50-year-old manassa mauler undertakes the difficult task of assuring that only top-flight bouts will be broadcast for the hat outfit. He does this as new president of the Boxing Promoters of America, Inc., a position to which he was elected yesterday.

Promoters in 11 cities now belong to the B. P. A.—Boston, Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Kansas City and Des Moines. Others will be admitted soon.

Under contract No. 2, Dempsey became director of Adam's Public Relations and Sports activities.

In the current battle for the attention of the nation's radio fight fans, Mine Jacobs' New York fights are staged at Madison Square Garden on Friday nights and at the St. Nicholas arena on Monday nights. The Gillette Safety Razor Company is his radio sponsor. Meanwhile, the boxing promoters of America (sponsored by Adam) stage and air their bouts on Monday nights.

It will be up to Dempsey to make certain that the advance schedules in the various cities provide at least one top-flight scrap that can be selected for the air each Monday night.

Training Camp Briefs

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 5—(UP)—Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler promised today he would make a complete investigation—"even if I have to go to Mexico myself"—into every case of a major league player who jumps to Bernard Pasquel's eight-team Mexican league.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 5—(UP)—Paul Schreiber, 43-year-old batting practice pitcher who shared in six world series dividends during his nine years with the Yankees, said today he wouldn't be surprised if he didn't get his seventh world series check with the Boston Red Sox this season.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5—(UP)—Manager Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals was like the old woman in the shoe, he has so many pitchers he doesn't know what to do.

Dyer ran out of praise yesterday, congratulating southpaws Max Lanier and Howie Pollett and righthanders Charley Barrett, Ted Wilks, Matt Surkont and Fred Martin on their performances. Martin, 30-year-old Oklahoman recently returned from the service, was particularly outstanding.

TAMPA, Fla., March 5—(UP)—Manager Bill McKechnie was resigned to the fact today that the Cincinnati Reds will undergo no postwar reconversion—they will be the same old team with strong pitching and weak hitting. As usual, the hurlers had the best of it yesterday as Jimmy Wilson's team beat Hank Gowdy's club, 2 to 1.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 5—(UP)—Manager Lou Boudreau took holdouts Mickey Rocco, first baseman, and Frank Hayes, catcher, into a far corner of left field today in an attempt to iron out their differences but he couldn't get them to sign.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 5—(UP)—Manager Frankie Frisch, a good man with a bat in his playing days, was pleased today with the hitting potentialities of his 1946 Pirates. Burgess Whitehead and Bob Elliott each hit home runs and Rookie Ralph Kiner drove in five tallies during yesterday's pirate victory over Hollywood, 9-4.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5—(UP)—Catcher Bill Dickey, in the midst of a comeback attempt with the Yankees, was the hardest worker in camp today and Coach Johnny Neun said the big guy looked as good as ever.

ALIAS MISS HARRIS

THIS IS JEANINE ANN ROOSE, who plays Phil Harris' little daughter on the Jack Benny program. Two months ago Jeanine Ann was chosen by Benny to read the part of Phil's youngster on the program. Before that she had never been on the air, and she had had no professional experience—unless five little theater plays at the Geller Workshop in Hollywood is considered professional.

Jeanine is eight years old. She has two older brothers, Douglas, 11½, and Ronald, 13. Her father, Ivan Roose, is in the retail produce business in Los Angeles. The mother, Agatha, heard that Jack was auditioning little girls for the part on his program. She contacted Bob Ballin, producer of the show, to arrange the audition. On the program, in calling her "Phil Harris' little girl" no name is mentioned, but it is assumed that they mean Phil Harris' eldest daughter, Alice Faye Harris, Jr., who in real life is 3½ years old. Jeanine looks very much as if she could be Alice, Jr.'s big sister.

Auto Dealers Greet OPA Trade-In Edict With Mixed Reactions

DISCRIMINATION CLAUSE ON NEW CARS IS HAILED

Ned Harden Cites Gamble In Every Deal, Fears Curbs Won't Work

Mixed reaction in Circleville greeted the new OPA ruling setting a floor used car trade in allowance.

The new regulation requires that dealers allow either the "as is" ceiling price or a fair market sales value, minus the retail cost of necessary repairs. The OPA also decrees:

"No dealer may require his customer to have a trade-in nor may he give customers with a trade-in preference on delivery of a new car."

Anti-Discrimination Hailed

Donald Mason, chairman of the price panel of the local Price Control board, praised the order against discrimination. He said:

"It has been pitiful in many places where returning GI's had sold their cars before going into service and couldn't get a new one without a trade in. Anyone who is the victim of this type of discrimination should tell the OPA immediately.

Ned Harden, of the Harden-Stevenson Company said that he doesn't see how such a restriction can be made. He explained:

"Buying a used car is a gamble. You have to value each car in your opinion as to what it will bring on a fair market.

"It's all wet. They've got the automobile business all messed up with OPA regulations. I don't see their point in putting more restrictions on now. They ought to take all restrictions off. If they did the thing would adjust itself through supply and demand when production starts."

Finds Used Cars Scarce

Declaring that used cars are almost impossible to find, Mr. Harden added:

"Nine out of ten dealers won't talk to you about a new car unless you've got a used car to trade. Used cars are too hard to get. You have to pay the ceiling price when you buy them and after repairs the retail ceiling allows very little profit. It just doesn't make sense."

E. E. Clifton, of the E. E. Clifton Sales and Service Company, said he was observing the OPA regulations.

G. L. Schiear, of the Schiear Auto Sales Company on Watt street said he didn't think the regulations could be enforced, but he was in accord with the ban on trade-in discrimination. He said he had never let lack of a trade-in halt a sale.

Block Ficticious Values

The OPA regulations are designed to prevent the ficticious valuations of trade-in cars. An example of the problem confronting the dealers is cited by the OPA as follows:

"Let us assume that Mr. Jones decides to buy a new car. The reasonable value of his old car is $600. He is offered only $200 for his used car by the dealer and the new car sells for $1,000. This would mean that instead of paying $1,000 for his new car, Mr. Jones actually has to pay the equivalent of $1,400. This, obviously, is not observing the ceiling price for a new car.

"Let us assume further that the car Mr. Jones is trading is listed at with an 'as is' value of $700. Under the first method cited above, the dealer would pay Mr. Jones $700, less the cost of making the necessary repairs on the car at retail. These necessary repairs come to $100 and the reasonable value for the used car in this example would be $600.

Fair Value Explained

"Under the second method, which may be used when the 'as is' price is higher than the fair market sales value, the dealer determines (from trade tables) the fair market sales value of the top grade car of the same make and model to be traded and subtracts from this the retail price for necessary repairs. Use of a fair market value substantially lower than the 'Blue Book' or other trade table price, is "considered a violation."

In order to obtain the ceiling price of used cars, owners should call at the local Price Control Board office, giving the complete description of the car and extras. The local beard is not allowed to give this information over the telephone, but will give the ceiling prices in writing upon request.

U. S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists say most nuts are at last half fat. They are also high in protein, so that they can occasionally alternate for meat in a main dish, such as nut loaf. Nuts also provide vitamin B, especially thiamine—and a little iron and calcium. In pastry pecans, ground fine, may substitute for half the fat. Mix and bake like plain pastry.

STUDENTS FACE EXAMS FRIDAY IN SCHOLARSHIP

Approximately 85 Circleville and Pickaway County students are scheduled to undergo scholarship tests Friday in the Circleville High School. County School Supt. George D. McDowell said Tuesday that the tests will begin at 8:45 a. m. and will likely consume about three hours.

Covering five subject groups, he explained, the tests will be given by a county committee which is composed of Supt. McDowell as chairman; J. Wray Henry, Circleville High School principal; Walter Harris, Ashville School superintendent; and Judson Lanman, Williamsport superintendent.

Each of the five subjects will count 60 points, or a total of 300 for the tests. The subjects are English, history, mathematics, science, and reading.

CAR TURNS OVER BUT IRA J. BARR ESCAPES INJURY

Ira J. Barr, 21, of 613 E. Mound street, was involved in a minor traffic accident on Route 23, 7.9 miles north of Chillicothe Saturday night, the highway patrol reports. Barr's car skidded on a curve, turned over and knocked down a fence at the Walter Streitenberger place. Barr was uninjured.

A jet-propelled auto, found in Germany, attains a speed of 10 miles a minute. Just another post-war worry for the traffic cop?

That fellow found snoozing on a tree limb in a park is probably the type that always insists on an upper berth.

The 30-minute program will originate in the Circleville High School auditorium and will be broadcast by remote control from 3:30 to 4 p. m. The public is invited to watch the broadcast. The program will feature Circleville and Pickaway County officials and citizens and two Circleville musical organizations.

Rehearsals will begin at 2 p. m. in the auditorium.

During the program, interesting historical highlights and other facts about Pickaway County will be related.

Among those to be interviewed on various subjects are Mayor Ben H. Gordon, County Treasurer Robert G. Colville, Russell C. Palm, manager of the Pickaway Dairy Co-op Association; James L. Yost, president of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce; Fred C. Clark, civic leader, and Mrs. Ray W. Davis, president of the Southeast District, Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Community Choral Society will present two numbers, one under the direction of Carl Leist, attorney, and the other under the direction of the Rev. Carl Kennedy, pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

Another musical number will be given by the Circleville High School Girls' Sextette, under the direction of Miss Beatrice Sprague.

This is one of a series of programs, called "Know Your County," which will be broadcast direct from the county seats of Central Ohio counties. Art Robinson, Columbus newspaper writer and radio newscaster, is producer and master of ceremonies for the program.

HELP OF MAYOR ASKED IN HUNT FOR LOST SON

Mayor Ben Gordon has been asked to assist in finding Alfred Redmon or Alfred Redmon Gray. He is approximately 57 years old.

Mrs. Edward Graef, of Havre, Montana, wrote the mayor in behalf of the man's mother. The mother, she said, is a native of the Circleville area, born in 1872. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Lenhardt.

After the birth of the son, according to Mrs. Graef, he was adopted by an aunt named Callie Gray.

Now the mother is growing old and wishes to see her boy before she dies.

FIREMEN CALLED TO CRAGO HOME MONDAY NIGHT

Fire at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Crago, West High street, Monday night destroyed a closet, a wardrobe and a stairway. Firemen were called at 8 p.m. No estimate of the damage was made.

We hope the United States and Argentina settle their difficulties. The Good Neighbor blueprint should hardly call for a spite fence running down the middle.

STATE OFFICIAL VISITS SCHOOLS

Elementary Curricula Leader Making 3-Day Tour Of County Facilities

Visitation itinerary for Mrs. Verna Walters, elementary curricula supervisor for the Ohio Department of Education who arrived in Circleville Monday afternoon for a three-day schedule of school visits and round-table discussions was announced by County Supt. George D. McDowell.

Accompanied by Supt. McDowell she visited the Wayne Township School Monday afternoon and afterwards Mrs. Walters addressed teachers of grades one through three, along with superintendents and principals, in the Common Pleas Courtroom.

Tuesday's schedule included morning visits to the Walnut Township and Madison Township Schools, and afternoon visits to the Duvall, South Bloomfield, and Ashville Schools, to be followed at 4:15 p. m. by a discussion meeting for teachers of grades from four through eight, in the Common Pleas Courtroom.

Mrs. Walters on Wednesday will visit Scioto, Muhlenburg and Darby Schools, after which a one-hour consultation with school heads and teachers will begin at 4 p. m. in Supt. McDowell's office in the Courthouse.

Another telephone strike threatens. Grandpappy Jenkins says a real old timer is a fellow who can remember that when a chap lifted the receiver he always got a number, even if it was a wrong one.
